To whom it may concern:

It has been our distinct pleasure to get to know Toby de la Torre over the past two years, during the production of our feature documentary "Escaramuza: Riding from the Heart." Our project has been filmed inside the Charrería community in Southern California, and Toby has been instrumental in facilitating our access and helping the project.

We have found Toby to be an extremely knowledgeable and enthusiastic advocate for Charrería culture and history. He is passionate in his efforts to promote the beautiful traditions and family values of his heritage to the larger community. We've attended Charros Federation USA events coordinated by Toby at a variety of venues, and all have been beautifully put together with an eye toward educating the public, and always with the best interests of the animals in mind. We've also watched Toby help other filmmakers and journalists gain a deeper understanding of his culture so that they could in turn share that knowledge with the general public.

Toby's tireless efforts to keep Mexican Rodeo culture and traditions a viable and vital part of California life have enriched us all.

Sincerely,

Robin Rosenthal & Bill Yahraus
